The European Maritime Safety Agency is one of the European Union's decentralised agencies. Based in Lisbon, the Agency provides technical, operational and scientific assistance to the European Commission and Member States in the fields of maritime safety, maritime security, prevention of, and response to, pollution caused by ships as well as response to marine pollution caused by oil and gas installations. The Agency also contributes to the overall efficiency of maritime traffic and maritime transport.

The European Maritime Safety Agency offers a National Experts in Professional Training (NEPTs hereinafter) programme for a period of at least 3 months and at most 5 months. More information regarding the definition of a NEPT, as well as general provisions can be found in Article 23 of the Decision of the Administrative Board of 20 November 2009 laying down the rules on secondment to EMSA of National Experts and National experts in Professional Training. The professional training lasts between three to five months and usually starts on 1 or 16 October 2014.

The purpose of the professional training programme is:

- to provide NEPTs with experience of EMSA's working methods with regard to Marine Pollution Response, Vessel Traffic Information Systems and EU Maritime Safety Legislation;
- to enable them to gain practical experience and understanding of the day-to-day work of EMSA and to give them the opportunity to work in a multicultural environment;
